

VOX CHURCH GLOBAL MISSIONS PRIORITY AREAS

Vox Church firmly believes that followers of Jesus are called to be actively involved in engaging people with the gospel around the world. To focus our efforts, we center our global engagement in the following ways:

Church Planting and Theological Training: Outside the US, often resources for theological training are inaccessible for indigenous pastors. We believe in training and empowering local, national pastors and partnering with international organizations supporting local church planting.

Least Access to the Gospel: According to the Joshua Project, there are 3.28 billion people that have never heard the gospel or know who Jesus is. We partner with organizations dedicated to advancing the gospel in these areas among these people groups.

Women and Children: We seek to assist those who are supporting women and children in need, specifically those being exploited or trafficked, in some of the hardest and darkest places.

Extreme poverty: We partner with evangelistic and relief organizations to help provide clean water, stabilize food insecurity, provide opportunities for education and vocational training, basic financial services, and access to medical care with particular attention given to Sub-Saharan Africa where these conditions are the most difficult.

Arena of Ideas: With belief in the call to living with redemptive intentionality, we support those stewarding their gifts with gospel aims in areas of significant cultural influence. These include education, film, business, government, and the arts.
